THE MAENNERCHOR CELEBRATION.

The Arrangements Progressing Satisfactorily-Programme of the Event.

The arrangements for the celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the Indianapolis Maennerchor the latter part of the week, are progressing excellently. Yesterday a force of men began laying gaspipes, nearly three hundred feet of which will be necessary, for the unique display of natural gas at Cottage Park at the summer night festival next Saturday night. In addition to this there will be several thousand incandescent electric lights, grouped in arches, flags and other picturesque designs. This part of the general celebration promises to be a most brilliant and attractive one. Only those who have regular invitations, issued by some member of the committee having this entertainment in charge, will be admitted to the park, and these invitations must first be presented at the Big Four ticket office, No. 1 East Washington street, where tickets will be issued on them. This issuing of tickets will not begin until to-morrow morning, and none can be taken at the public concert at Tomlin-son Hall on Friday evening, for the reservations are already unusually large. The members of the Maennerchor who have taken tickets, or those who have bought tickets from them, can secure reserved seats on them at the Big Four ticket office without extra charge. A most attractive programme will be presented at this con-cert, including Professor Barus's "Festival Cantata," written especially for it, the singing by the united choruses and by the Maennerchor chorus, in addition to Miss Barus's piano playing, in which particular interest is manifested. The festival chorus will have a final rehearsal at Tomlinson Hall to-morrow night, Professor Barus having returned from Cincinnati and Co-tumbus, O., where he has been rehearsing the choruses of those cities for the works in which they are to appear here.

The visiting societies from Louisville,
Cincinnati and Columbus, O., will reach here at noon on Friday, and will be escorted from the Union Station to Maennerchor Hall, on East Wasnington street. by the reception committee and members of the society. Afterwards they will go to the Grand Hotel, which will be their headquarters, and later in the afternoon will participate in general rehearsal at Tomlinson Hall, preparatory to the night con-

The president of the Maennerchor, Mr. Gottlieb Recker, who has been a member continuously since the organization of the society, is still so affected as to be com-pelled to remain in his room, and it is feared that he will not be able to participate in the celebration. The members of the society have been hoping that another of its charter members, Wenzel Schindler, now a resident of Harrison, O., would be here this week, but yesterday they received a letter from him containing the unwelcome news that his wife, with whom he had lived forty-four years, and who was expecting to come here with him, had died suddenly a few days ago.

UPSET A CARRIAGE.

Several Hurt in a Washinton-Street Runaway.

Yesterday afternoon, at 5 o'clock, a horse driven by Charles New became frightened at Kentucky avenue and the Big Four tracks, and dashed up the avenue toward Washington street. New was thrown from the wagon and severely bruised about his limbs. The horse continued running up the avenue, and turned east on Washington street. At Illinois street it collided with a carriage occupied by Mrs. Knight and daughter Mary, aged eight years, residing at No. 15 Pleasant street; Mrs. Overly, residing at No. 426 Virginia avenue, and Mrs. Julia Gates and babe, residing at No. 27 Woodruff street. All were thrown from the carriage. Mary Knight was cut on the lip and had a tooth knocked out. Mrs. Gates was holding the babe in her arms when the accident occurred, but on being knocked from the carriage she held the babe in such a manner that it was not injured. Mrs. Overly fainted, and it required much work to revive her. Another carriage, owned by Mrs. Dunlap, but which was unoccupied, was struck and a wheel torn off. The frightened animal was captured by patrolmen Warren and Holts.

The Convention of Writers. The ninth annual convention of the Western Association of Writers will be held at Warsaw, Ind., June 25 to 29, inclusive. A lengthy programme has been prepared for the convention. The annual banquet will be given Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. On Thursday afternoon Mary E. Cardwill will give a sketch of the life and poetry of Mrs. Sarah T. Bolton. The business meeting will be held Friday afternoon, and on that evening the annual musical and literary entertainment will

HAND BEHIND A HAND

CLAIMS MADE REGARDING THE LOGANSPORT RAILROAD.

Reported that the Pennsylvania Company Is Backing It-West Side Property Owners Meet.

A hundred or more people owning property on the west side met at 15 North Mississippi street last night to prepare a remonstrance against granting the Logansport railroad the right of way for which it has petitioned. Claims were made during the evening that the projected railroad was merely a scheme of the Pennsylvania Company to connect its southern with its northern system and release itself from a burdening contract with the Lake Erie & Western for hauling cars over the latter company's track part of the distance between Indianapolis and Chicago. It was asserted that the Lake Erie & Western company had been imposing hard restrictions on the Pennsylvania Company, not allowing it to take on passengers between here and Kokomo. It was insisted that unless the new company was backed by the Pennsylvania Company it would be unable to obtain money during this season of depression.

George Merritt presided over the meeting and W. J. Hubbard acted as secretary. There was a unanimous sentiment opposing the right of way, although the property owners favored the road provided it came over the Belt and into the city on ground now occupied by other railroads. Speeches were made, the tenor of which was that the proposed route would endanger the lives of hundreds of school children, ruin Military Park and practically confiscate Wabash and Missouri streets, besides increasing the danger at the Washington-street crossing, a block from the Statehouse Stress was laid upon the fact that the franchise which the company was seek-ing is worth fully a million dollars and is perpetual. The damage to adjoining property was conservatively estimated at a half million dollars, and yet it was proposed to grant the franchise without consideration. The remonstrance drawn up was signed by two hundred property owners, and a committee was appointed to present the remonstrance to the Board of Public Works this morning. This committee consists of George Merritt, John S. Spann, B. Kaufman, W. H. H. Miller, I. N. Richie, William S. Elder, Frank Maus, J. Voss, Jacob Wachstetter, William H. English, Dr. Prunk, C. L. Turner, Thomas Stout and Thomas E. Morris.

FIREMEN'S PENSION FUND.

Returns to Insurance Companies-

The Engine Company Trouble. The firemen's pension fund committee held a meeting yesterday, at which the refunding to the insurance companies of the amounts paid by them to the fund was considered. The law under which the payments were made having been declared unconstitutional, the moneys heretofore paid in must be refunded. The firemen think the companies ought not to require the repayment of the amount, as the sum due each company is not large, but the aggregate will cut a considerable hole in the pension fund. The commissioners reached no conclusion yesterday as to a definite time when the money would be repaid. Some of the insurance com-panies have signified a willingness to accept one half the amount as payment

The Board of Safety yesterday disposed of the imbrogilo at No. 1 engine company, Captain Quinn, of that company, is made captain of hook and ladder company. pany No. 3, Captain Arnold is moved to chemical No. 2 and Capt. John Robinson of the latter company is made captain of No. 1. George Diller, of engine com-pany No. 1, was suspended for ten days for insubordination in telephoning to Chief Webster for a leave of absence after being refused by his captain. Simeon Hoyle and Albert Gresh were ordered trans-ferred to some other house by the chief. John Barlow, Walter Ripley and William Hinesley, of engine company No. 1, are to be reprimanded by Chief Webster for entering a saloon in uniform, and an order to that effect was issued to the chief.

NO EGRESS OR INGRESS.

Woodside People Want a Street

Through Panhandle Yards. A committee of property owners from Woodside appeared before the Board of Works yesterday afternoon to present arguments for the opening of either Sharpe or Trowbridge street through the property now occupied by the Pennsylvania Company's yards. The property owners were represented by ex-Judge Black and the railroad company was also represented by an attorney. From State street east it is a mile and a half to the next street connecting the Michigan road with Washington street. If Sharpe street were opened the new street would necessitate the remodeling of some of the company's buildings, and the company is making vigorous objections to it being popened. Trowbridge street would not strike any of the buildings and would be just as satisfactory to the property owners as the other. The property owners say that at present they are practically isolated from the city, and in case of fire the department would be compelled to lay hose around State street and out the Michigan road to reach Woodside. The board took no action upon the petition, but one of these streets will probably be or-

Street Department Records. Pearson Mendenhall, clerk to the street commissioner, has introduced a system in the department work. He has a record of the work that enables him to ascertain what has been done by the street force with the same degree of accuracy that a mercantile house is able to tell of past transactions by a reference to its books. One of the new features of the office under his management is the manner of preserving orders for street repairs. Heretofore it was the custom to turn over to the foremen of the street gangs the orders for repairs received from the Board of Works; then, when the orders were returned by the foremen, if they were returned, they were pasted into an invoice book. They always came back crumpled and dirty, and often did not come back at all. In case the order was not returned there was nothing in the records of the street commissioner to show that the repairs had been made. Mr. Men-denhall pastes the original orders into the invoice book as soon as they are received from the board, and issues the order to the foremen upon blanks prepared for the purpose, with a coupon attached, which shows also the nature and location of the repairs ordered. When the repairs are made and the order returned the date is marked upon the coupon stub, and also upon the original order in the invoice book, which is indexed, so that but a moment is required to tell just when any repair was completed. Another simplification added to the work by Mr. Mendenhall is the keeping of a register of the work of the street, sewer and bridge gangs in separate books. The weekly reports made by the foremen of each of these gangs are copied into these books and footed up monthly. They are then carried into the journal and ledger, and in this way it is possible to tell the amount of work that has been done by the different gangs in a comparatively short space of time. Formerly the weekly reports as made by the foremen were filed away in the pigeon holes, and at the end of the year, when it came time to make the annual report, it was an endless task to go through all of

Complaint of Dust.

Complaints are occasionally coming to the board about the way in which the streets are cleaned. The burden of the complaints are that the dust raises from the street car tracks. The street car company says it has expended $4,000 experimenting on a way to avoid dust but has as yet falled in finding

ROADSTERS TO RACE.

Catholic Congregations to Pienic at the Fair Grounds.

The Catholic congregations of the city have combined for a general picnic to be given at the fair grounds, to-morrow, for the benefit of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd. There will be all manner of amusements and diversions upon the grounds, with refreshments and lunch for those who do not take lunch with them. One of the features will be amateur races, arrangements for which were completed at a meeting held at the Grand Hotel last night. The races will be between citizens who own good horses and every man drives his own horse. All horses are to be driven in sulkies, and it is anticipated that much amusement will be afforded the spectators viewing old and staid citizens perched upon the small sulky seat urging their roadsters about the track. There are no classes, and while the promoters of the races do not expect to smash any records they are confident that they will afford more amusement to the grand stand than any meet that has been held here for years past. A perusal of the entries to the races shows that their expectations in this line are not unfounded. The entries are as follows: First race, pace—Thomas Taggart, D. C. Morris, Horace Wood, Frank Stechhan, Steve Crawford and Blair & Baker. Second race, trot-Wes Stout, Ed Burris, Charles Fletcher, William Kissel, C. W.

Third race, pace—Mr. Clancey, Wes Stout, William Staub, Frank Schofield, Captain Madden, Frank Hays, D. B. Shideler and C. W. Lyzott. There will also be exhibition miles by Kissel's Dallas and by Ed Schurmann's double team of grays, driven by John The judges will be Ed Schurmann, Hiram Howland and Harry Springsteen. W. H. NO CLEW TO THE MURDERER.

William Kirk Was the Last to See Patrick O'Day Alive.

The police and the coroner have positively decided that Patrick O'Day, whose body was found in the canal near Blackford street, Monday afternoon, was murdered. Both parties have been investigating the case and have come to the conclusion that O'Day was killed and his body thrown in the canal Saturday night. The locality in which the body was found is one considerably frequented. The body when found was floating close to a trestle work, and as hundreds of citizens walk over this trestle work and along both banks of the canal every day, this theory seems a little out of place. If the theory that he was not murdered Saturday night is accepted, then the question as to where O'Day was on Sunday and on Monday, until his death arises.

Yesterday William Kirk, who admits that he was with O'Day as late as 1 o'clock Sunday morning was taken to the relies. Sunday morning, was taken to the police station and also before Coroner Beck. At both places he told the same story that he told at first. Kirk said that he was too drunk to remember whether or not he had quarreled with O'Day and struck him, as was reported, but he said he was of the opinion that he did not. Kirk was not held by the police. O'Day was much under the influence of liquor from Saturday morning at 11 o'clock until he was last seen. He drew his wages in the afternoon and started home. On the way he drank heavily. He left home and continued to drink, so Kirk stated, until the latter saw him last. Kirk said he remembers taking a drink with O'Day at a saloon on West Washington street as late as 1 o'clock Saturday night.

ONE DEGREE HOTTER.

Thermometer Reaches 95.7-One Serious Prostration.

The weather bureau reported yesterday the hottest day of the year up to the present time, the thermometer registering 95.7 at 3 o'clock. It slowly fell until it registered 90 at 7 o'clock. Monday was the next hottest day, the temperature reaching 94.7. The prospects for rain in the next few days are not very favorable. The weather bureau stated that a low barometric area, considerably longer than it was wide, prevalled over South Dakota, Colorado, Wyoming and Nebraska. The area was reported moving south, but not eastward. Accompanying this area is a little rain, but it is not probable that the rain clouds will move in this direction. The weather bureau says that it is possible that rain may come in the shape of thunderstorms this afternoon.

During the excessive heat yesterday afternoon Christian Michel, a saloon keeper at Sugar Grove and Miller avenue, North Indianapolis, was overcome by heat on Meridian street in front of the Circle House. He was taken into the hotel and Dr. Kahlo was summoned. He found that Michel was under the influence of liquor, and this rendered his condition serious. Michel was resting easy at the hotel last night, but the chances are slightly against recovery.

MARRIED HER OTHELLO.

Della McMinny, a White Girl, and a Negro United.

Word was received here yesterday that Della McMinny, a very pretty white girl, employed at the Denison Hotel, was married at Marshall, Iil., yesterday, to John Southall, a coal-black negro. The girl is nineteen years of age, with dark brown eyes and of generally prepossessing appearance. Southall was employed as a cook at the Bates House, and met the girl when she was working there. She was completely infatuated with him, and all efforts to separate them were futile. She belongs to a re-spectable family at Terre Haute, and ran away from there several years ago. About a month ago she was assaulted by two young toughs on Maryland street and her head badly bruised by stones thrown Postoffice Changes.

Beginning with to-day the general delivery at the postoffice will be kept open until 11 o'clock p. m. This is done to accommodate patrons who may not be able to call during working hours, there being many such living in parts of the city where, owing to a lack of carriers, letters cannot be delivered. Many of these, for convenience sake, have their mail left at the nearest grocery or drug store, and frequently fall to get it promptly when called for. Every street box has been supplied with a schedule giving the exact time at which the mail from the particular box is collected, so that patrons are thus informed when to drop letters to insure prompt forwarding. The schedule also contains a number of valuable instructions, as well as a caution against tampering with mail boxes and locks.

SOLDIERS COME HOME

A PORTION OF THOSE AT SULLIVAN RETURNED YESTERDAY.

No More Companies Will Be Released Till the Govenor Returns from Danville, Ky.

Yesterday morning, shortly before 11 o'clock, a larger crowd than usual assembled in front of the gates leading into the sheds at the Union Station. There was much jostling and craning of necks towards the west. There were many pretty young ladies in the crowd. At a quarter of 11 o'clock there came the sounds of two deep signals of a locomotive's whistle, fol-, lowed by the puffing of an engine coming from the west. It was the I. & V. regular train, bearing three companies of the Indianapolis militia who have been seeing service in the mining districts since a week ago last Saturday. Three coaches were filled with the soldier boys, and the platforms between the cars were filled with those who could hardly wait for the train to stop to allow them to get off and once more put down their feet on Indianapolis soil. When the train stopped there was a great rush from the cars and much jostling among those who hoped to get a chance to shake hands with the boys. Many were the parents of the soldier boys. The men as they filed out from the coaches formed in line and made ready to march to the Statehouse to be reviewed by Adjutantgeneral Robbins.

The following Indianapolis companies stationed at Sullivan received word Monday evening to break camp and make ready for the return home: Company D, Second Regiment, Light Infantry, Captain Conde; Company M. Second Regiment, Captain Buckner, and Company M, Third Regiment, Captain Porter. The companies came under charge of Lieutenant Colonel Smith, of this city, Major Thayer, of Greenfield, and Adjutant Seguin. The troops took the midnight train from Sullivan for Vincennes. There the J. & V. train was taken for this city.

this, with the experiences at the scene of trouble, gave the troops a very dust-begrimmed appearance. When they left the city the cleanliness and neatness of their uniforms was noted by all, but on their return yesterday it would have been doubted that these were the same troops. The clothing was not the only thing changed. All had seen active service, and the story was told by faces which had been sunburned to a dark tan. There was a profusion of faces covered with stunted beards and mustaches. The colored troops composing Companies M, of the Second and Third regiments, did not show the effect of the sun's attacks as did their white

When Lieutenant Colonel Smith gave the command the three companies filed out of the Union Station, looking neither to the right nor to the left at their friends who were crowding almost upon them. Their appearance along the line of march to the Statehouse was greeted with cheers by those on the streets. The troops marched to the east steps of the Statehouse, where they were met by Adjutant-general Robbins. After Lieutenant Colonel Smith handed a report to the former by dismissed handed a report to the former he dismissed the companies, who lost no time in seeking their homes and donning citizens' clothes. The rest of the day was spent in renewing acquaintances and the telling of experiences to crowds of listeners. The recalling of all the troops probably depends upon the action of the strikers on the scale of wages adopted at Columbus, O. Though the Indiana miners do not be-long to the national organization, yet they are out on a sympathetic strike, and will probably not return to work until the strikes in the other States are settled. The Princeton and Evansville companies left for home at the same time that the left for home at the same time that the Indianapolis companies started for this city. Five companies still remain at Sullivan, among them being Company A, Second Regiment, and a squad of the Light Artillery from this city.

During the absence of Governor Matthews, who went to Danville, Ky., Monday night, the reports from General McKee will probably influence the recall of the remainder of the troops mainder of the troops.

Governor Matthews is of the opinion that if the troubles are not settled by the conference at Columbus, O., that the citizens of the State at large should demand that the operators attempt some kind of a set-tlement with the miners. The property of the operators and the railroads has been protected at a cost of $20,000 to the State, with the former making few attempts to end the trouble. It is the general opinion of those at the Statehouse and of the coal dealers that the miners will accept the scale of wages adopted at Columbus, O.

A reporter found Lieutenant Colonel Harry B. Smith, of the Second Regiment, who is just off duty in Suilivan county, sitting in front of his house on Bellefontaine street taking a rest. His face was browned with exposure and he had the appearance of one to whom a good night's sleep had been a stranger, but when the men of the Indiana Legion who have been on duty in the dis-turbed districts were referred to he at once became enthusiastic. "The Journal cannot say too much in praise of the State troops in duty," said he. "Without individual exception their conduct was all that such veterans as Colonel Ross, who has seen veterans, could ask. Under gross insult and reviling they carried themselves with slient and soldierly dignity. On every occasion they responded with alacrity to every call of duty, which was incessant and severe. They did not complain of the prisevere. They did not complain of the privations. One night, when called unexpectedly by an alarm, the men were in line in eleven minutes. Being intelligent young men, they realized to a man the importance of their mission, and no man ever forgot it. They stood the fatigue marvelously. One detachment marched eighteen miles over a rough country in search of the lawless in about eight hours. The slurs which came back regarding the two colored companies were slanders. The colored men behaved as gallantly and did their duty as promptly and effectively as the white men. Their care of their camp was particularly commendable. The white soldiers treated them as comrades. "You cannot," continued Colonel Smith, "accord too much praise to General Mc-Kee. If possible, he was a better officer on duty than in the muster. There could be no better officer than Col. James R. Ross. His experience on the field years ago was of great value to us, and his coolness and soldierly conduct were contagious. Quar-termaster-general Compton did all that a man could do in his position. The supply of food was ample and of the best quality for such an expedition, and he was always where wanted. Of course, there were no luxuries. Soft bread was not often to be had, but of hard bread, bacon, coffee and sugar there was, after the first day or two, an abundance of the best. To the last the men were eager to do their duty, men often asking their officers to be permitted to go when detachments were sent out." "Do you think the presence of troops was necessary?" "Any man of sense who saw the work of the law-breakers-a quarter of a mile siding of coal cars derailed by having the spikes drawn, leaving the rails to spread and let the cars down upon the ties, cars turned over and the like, must decide that the troops were necessary. Near Alum Cave a score of carloads of coal were burned by taking the oiled waste used as a packing for the car boxes, and, after fas-tening it to the woodwork of the cars, setting it on fire, so that nothing but the iron and ashes were left. There was no fiction about the report of the attempt to blow up General McKee's car with dynamite. That the fuse went out was providential. At the five mining places visited, the companies had but one store—at Alum Cave, so the complaint of 'pluck-me' stores is not by any means a rule. "I have seen nothing in the papers recognizing the public spirit of the employers in this city who have spared their clerks and employes to do service for the State. One of the wholesale dealers in vegetables, etc., told his shipping clerk to go and do his duty to the State, to the serious detriment of his business. That was but one instance of many."

TO AWAIT GOVERNOR'S RETURN. No More Troops Will Be Relieved

Till Then.

Reports from Sullivan last night were to the effect that the soldiers had broken camp and all were to return home. General Robbins was seen at his home late last night, and said there was no truth whatever in the report. He said the five companies that had previously been ordered in and arrived yesterday were all that had been relieved, and all that would be till the Governor returned. Before the Governor left he gave instructions that the troops now at Sullivan be kept there till his return from Kentucky, when they will be ordered in if everything is then quiet. General McKee tel-egraphed last night that he would send the troops in according to his discretion. Gen. Robbins answered, in accordance with instructions from the Governor, that all troops were to remain till the Governor's
